

2025 Precinct Changes

San Benito County Elections

Precincts are defined when the lines of every voting district are layered on a map. Each unique, contiguous area becomes a precinct. Every voter in a particular precinct will be able to vote for the exact same offices. The precinct across the street may not have the same offices on a ballot.

Precinct maintenance is an ongoing process in elections. Precinct lines may change due to:

1. A city incorporates new territory (changing the district voting lines)
2. A district changes its lines (usually dividing into voting sub districts i.e. divisions or trustee areas)
3. The registered voter population grows too big in an existing precinct (as a general rule, we attempt to keep precincts under 700 voters).

In 2025, Sunnyslope Water District changed from at-large to by division elections, creating 5 sub-districts. This required splitting of precincts. Additionally, several areas of the county have seen growth in the number of registered voters over the past 2 years, resulting in the need to split (make smaller) multiple precincts.

Lastly, a review of the precinct numbering (naming) was made, and it was determined that the San Benito County Elections could provide more information to the voter, by introducing a new, more informative numbering system. This new numbering system will tell anyone exactly what districts are included in a precinct.

On the next page, you will find a table which explains how to read the precinct number and its associated districts. On the pages following that, please see the precinct number changes that occurred.

It should be noted that when an election occurs, depending on what is or isn't on the ballot, precincts with the same contests on the ballot are consolidated into voting precincts of approximately 2000 or fewer voters.
